CAMPBELL'S OPERating budget 1970-1971 is now a matter of record.

A 160-page booklet, enclosed in a red cover on which appears the architect's drawing of the new city hall, in detail, gives one all the figures that constitute the $4-million plus operation of the City of Campbell for this year.

It's quite a document.

If you know what you are looking for, you can find almost anything you want to know about the city's fiscal situation.

But let's clue you in, you had better have some vague idea what you had in mind before you start thumbing through the pages.

It is sort of involved.

For example, before one gets to page one, there are 13 pages (all numbered by the Roman numeral method) which lay the groundwork for the whole bit.

On pages XI, XII and XIII we picked up the grand total for income and expenditures.

The rest of the book was devoted mainly to a breakdown of how the millions were going to be expended and by what departments during this fiscal year.

WE WON'T BORE YOU with details but the budget indicates (on page XI) that there was $1,720,265 in fund balances as of July 1, 1970.

It estimates that revenues in the fiscal year of 1970-71 will be $3,374,330 and the expenditures will be $4,330,000, leaving a projected balance on June 30, 1971 of $761,575.

On page XII, (via a double-spread) a breakdown of the $4,333,000 distribution is made showing just how the dough will be allocated.

For example, $2,005,570 is earmarked under "general" and the rest of the dough is specified for categories such as "city hall construction" ($580,545); "debt service" ($313,800); "library construction" ($235,000); "parks and recreation bond" ($300,000); "street improvement" ($216,000); "special gas tax" ($245,000)...etc., etc.

On page XIII there is a summary of expenditures by "governmental functions" which, incidentally, shows that the police now have a budget of $533,025 and the fire department has $439,900 and the city hall construction takes $904,980.

But we won't carry this any further.

We are beyond our $ $ $ depth already.

-0-

OBVIOUSLY THERE IS hardly any way to "glamourize" a 150-page book consisting mostly of $-signs and figures.

On the other hand, Jeff Whitaker, the city's finance director, and his staff, who prepared the massive missive, should be given recognition for inserting a provocative phrase on the first page that is worthy of mention.

Here is the sentence that appears without quotation marks, so we assume the author is either this guy "Anonymous" we have heard so much about or maybe Jeff or someone in his department dreamed it up:

"IT'S TOO BAD FUTURE GENERATIONS CAN'T SEE THE WONDERFUL THINGS WE'RE DOING WITH THEIR MONEY..."

You have to mull that over for a spell.

Then, we are not even sure what you will come up with.

We are still mulling.

TIME AND AGAIN WE run across words that some people use in everyday conversation that we haven't the foggiest idea what they mean.

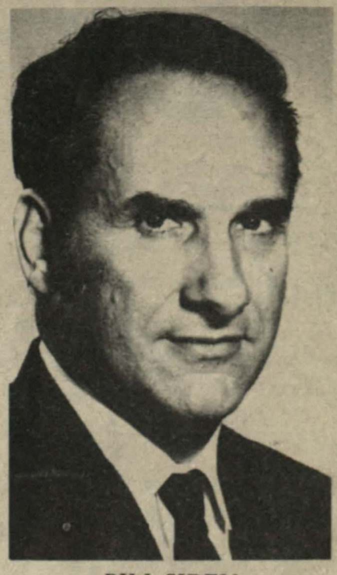
FOR BEAUTIFICATION EFFORTS

Business firms to get awards on Thursday

Nine Campbell business firms will receive beautification awards at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon meeting tomorrow (Thursday, Sept. 24) which will launch the fall season for the CofC.

Certificates will be presented in the three categories (large, medium, small) in the third annual business beautification contest sponsored by the Citizens for Beautification under the direction of Mrs. Jeanette Watson, chairman.



BILL SIDEN
--luncheon speaker

In addition, to the three awards in each category, special presentations will also be made for the best illuminated and also the best non-illuminated signs that fit into the overall design of the buildings.

Bill Siden, a staff member of the area development for PG&E, who has appeared at each Campbell Congress for Community Progress since 1967, is scheduled to be the speaker at the luncheon meeting.

He is expected to make a slide presentation on the timely topic of "The Individual and Ecology." Siden will be remembered for his popular slides of Campbell beginning with "A Stranger Looks at Campbell" in the Congress of 1967, followed by "A Stranger Returns" and in subsequent local appearances.

Siden, who has been with PG&E since 1948, was cofounder of San Francisco Beautiful in 1959 and is also skilled as a writer and lecturer.

Bob Bullard, CofC president will preside at the meeting and Mayor Dean Chamberlin will assist Mrs. Watson in making the presentations.

Throughout the summer months, a committee, named by the Beautification group, has conducted an intensive judging campaign throughout the business community.

CITY ATTORNEY TO REPORT

City Council may act on first referendum at meeting Monday

Whether this city is going to have its first referendum election in its 18-year history may be determined next Monday, Sept. 28, at the City Council meeting.

City Attorney Joe Bonacina is scheduled to make a report on three alternatives that are open to the City Council with respect to the referendum petition that has been presented with the adequate number of signatures.

The petition with 1217 qualified signatures, which was filed with the City Council on Sept. 14, requests the Council to repeal a recently-enacted zoning ordinance affecting the Winchester Drive-In Theater or call a special election on the issue.

The petitioners take exception to the zone change from R-3-S (apartments) to M-1-S (industrial) that the City Council approved, after almost two years of hearings, on a six-acre parcel adjoining the present theater and owned by Syufy Enterprises, operators of the theater.

The theater wants to put up a third screen on the property as part of the two-screen operation that is now in effect on the adjoining land.

Bonacina, who was on vacation when the petition was filed, suggested in a memo that action on the petition be deferred until his return for the Sept. 28 meeting.

Bonacina had submitted that the Council could have three choices: (1) repeal the ordinance; (2) call an election, or (3) take no action and force the petitioners to seek court action on the matter.

In a related matter on the agenda for next Monday is a proposed amendment to the present ordinance that specifies that drive-in theaters must be 1000-feet from residential areas. The ordinance must be amended before a use permit allowing the third screen can be approved.

The Planning Commission has recommended that the ordinance remain as is.

The City Council next Monday is expected to take another step in the construction of the city hall project by approving landscape plans and calling for bids.

The budget calls for an expenditure of $46,000 for landscaping but bids for the job may come in lower, according to present cost estimates, it has been reported.

On the agenda also for next Monday's meeting is a recommendation from the Parks and Recreation Commission that the City Council send certificates of appreciation to two Little League "uncles" who "looked after" the Campbell Little League team in the recent world series in Williamsport, Pa., in which Campbell was the runner-up.

The two "uncles", Fred

PLANNING COMMISSION ACTION

Zone change denial blocks moving of duplex into single-family area

By a unanimous vote, the Planning Commission on Monday night denied a zone-change for property at 1171 W. Latimer onto which it was planned to move a duplex.

Before acting on the zone change, the commissioners heard from a number of residents in the area who opposed the duplex coming into a neighborhood, they claimed, that was predominately single-family dwellings and thus would be "spot zoning".

The commissioners agreed that it would be spot zoning and on a motion by Dale Scott denied the zone change request of Bernard M. Alter, owner of "The Yardstick" on Bascom, who explained that he wanted to move a duplex from 1058 El Solyo, adjacent to his firm, to the W. Latimer location.

The Commission on Monday also denied the request of Shell Oil Co. for pole-mounted cloth banners that would be installed at five Shell stations in Campbell.

Four items on the agenda Monday night affected, directly or indirectly, the proposed development for the former Gomes Ranch between Latimer and Hamilton which includes a shopping center, service station and approximately 89 four-plexes.

The Commission took care of two station items by first approving the modified plot plan for the gas station at Hamilton and the extension of Third St. The modification was necessary because of the new realignment of the Third St. extension.

Approval was also "reaffirmed" for the use permit previously granted. That action was also necessary because of the shift in Third St.

One of the stipulations of approval of the use permit for the station, which again was emphasized on Monday night, was that 50% of the shopping

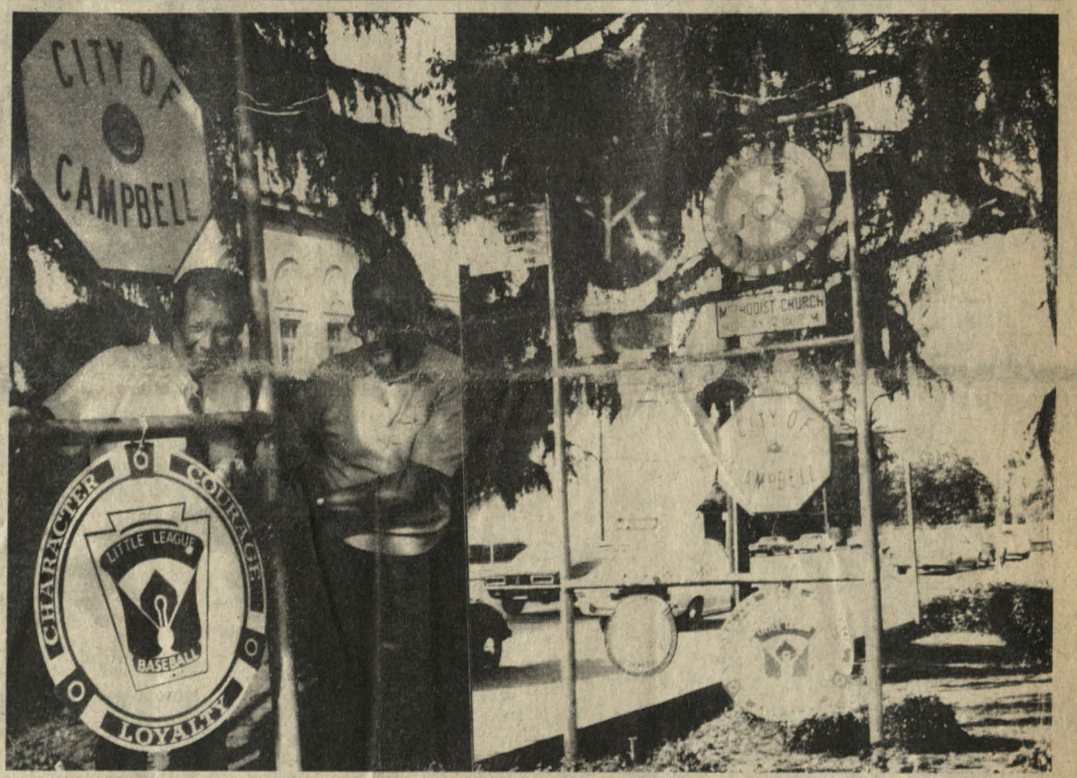
Trash pickup

Residents of Campbell are reminded that a free trash pickup will be conducted by Green Valley Disposal Co. on Friday, Oct. 2.

Although items such as furniture, appliances, dirt or rocks will not be taken, the pickup does offer an opportunity to rid the householder of trimmings (bundled in four-foot lengths), lawn trimmings, weeds, etc., as long as they are boxed in containers light enough to be carried by one man.

The disposal company offers this service to their customers in cooperation with the city's annual cleanup crusade.

Anyone wishing to have an old trash can or garbage container removed should place a note on it requesting its removal.



SIGN GOES UP---Through the efforts of Joe Kuczler, district administrator for Little League, a metal sign, on which has been painted the Little League insignia, has been placed with the signs of various service clubs of the community on the West Valley College campus at Winchester and Campbell Aves. City Manager Bob Stephens (left above) helps Kuczler put the new sign in place. According to Kuczler, Campbell is the first community in which a Little League emblem sign of this type appears with the service club symbols.

REPRESENTING 155 YEARS OF SERVICE

Banquet on Thursday honors six retiring Campbell volunteer fire fighters

WALTER SILBERBAUER

JOE LIPARI

RAY EVORA

GEORGE ADAMSON

JOHN YERKOVICH

HERMAN RICE

Six Campbell volunteer firemen who have served this community for a combined total of 155 years will be honored this Thursday (Sept. 24) at a retirement banquet at the Los Gatos Elks Club.

The six firefighters, Assistant Chief Walter Silberbauer, Captains Joseph Lipari, George Adamson, Herman Rice, John Yerkovich and Fireman Ray Evora, will be guests at the banquet sponsored by the Campbell Fire Department under the direction of Fire Chief George Maxwell.

The no-host social hour will be at 6:30 p.m. with the dinner scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at the Elks Club at Lark and Winchester Ave.

The affair is open to the public and tickets at $5 per person are available at the Fire Department.

Homer Hyde, former councilman and mayor, will be master-of-ceremonies for the event and will introduce Mayor Dean Chamberlin, councilmen and other civic officials.

Mayor Chamberlin will present certificates to the retiring firefighters.

Chief Maxwell will also present plaques to the honored six.

Fire Chief Maxwell said the banquet in only a small way recognizes the faithful service of the six firefighters who have performed their duties in the finest tradition of the fire service. Maxwell emphasized that they had donated their time, energy and loyalty to an important civic activity that needed to be done on a purely voluntary basis.

The chief also pointed out that they provided guidance and leadership through departmental activities which provided continuity through administrative changes over the years.

SILBERBAUER

Assistant Chief Silberbauer has the most seniority of the six who are being honored Thursday. He joined the volunteer department in 1926 and thus has 44 years of service.

Silberbauer has been employed by Sanitation District No. 4 for the past 20 years and was employed by the Campbell Water Co. for 12 years prior to going with District 4.

Silberbauer is a past noble grand of the Campbell Oddfellows Lodge and is also past district deputy. He has also served as past president of a number of professional organizations in water pollution activities.

LIPARI

Captain Lipari, known by his fellow firefighters as "Black Pump Joe", has been a volunteer in the Campbell department since 1944 thus racking up 26 years of service.

Lipari recalls that 1906 San Francisco fire burned his home in that city and two years later in 1908 he became a member of the San Francisco Fire Department.

In 1914, Lipari left the department and moved to Campbell where he became a farmer. He also worked for the Campbell Union (elementary) School District for a number of years, retiring a few years ago.

He became a volunteer in 1944. One of his responsibilities over the years has been for the tools and equipment taken to a fire. For many years he has spent four afternoons each week at the fire station.

ADAMSON

Captain Adamson became a volunteer in 1949. At the time, the late Jack Scott, Adamson's father-in-law, was fire chief.

Adamson's fellow firemen have tabbed him "The Axe" because of his prowess with that tool.

From 1947 to 1957, in addition to his Campbell volunteer duties, Adamson, a county employee, served as a volunteer fireman at the county hospital. Adamson, whose wife, Evelyn, is a long-time employee of the city's planning department, has lived in Campbell since 1946. He is a member of the Los Gatos Masonic Lodge.

RICE

Captain Rice has been a member of the Campbell volunteers since 1945, a total of 25 years.

He was recruited by Chief Scott while he was working at the Sunsweet packing house in Campbell. Rice has been employed by the city's public works department for almost 12 years. Originally from Oklahoma, he has lived in Campbell since 1920.

Editorial

But pick the spots

A new concept in the building of dwelling units has come upon the scene in Campbell with which we cannot show much enthusiasm.

We refer to the four-plex condominium projects that have been suggested for some areas in town.

Basically we find no particular fault with the idea, for there are many advantages to the type of construction.

The four-plex condominium generally caters to young married couples before their families are started or to the senior adults whose families are grown.

And there is a definite need, of course, for that type of housing.

There are other advantages.

In most instances, although each unit is individually owned, the exterior open space will be in common ownership and all the exterior maintenance, as well as landscaping, will be done by a professional service.

This maintenance in most cases, we understand, is a requirement on the buyer and the funds for the work are billed into the payments just as trust funds.

Another advantage also is that these four-plex projects, on the drawing boards for Campbell, are isolated to a degree from adjacent properties without any vehicular or pedestrian connections to the project.

What we are trying to say, of course, is that we think that the four-plex condominium development is a terrific idea.

We can think of a hundred different areas where a four-plex development would be ideal.

BUT, we believe firmly and sincerely that the areas in which this type of development is planned must be carefully selected.

In other words, just because the land is available does not necessarily mean that there should be four-plexes constructed on the property.

Let's face it.

For the past three years or so there have been no single-family developments in Campbell.

There have been, however, many applications submitted for multiple-housing projects and there have been many requests for zone changes to allow multiple-housing on areas that have been earmarked for single-family homes.

Obviously whatever we say is bound to be taken wrong.

We recognize that there is a need for duplexes, four-plexes and multiples in this area.

We realize that every community in this great urbanized sprawl of ours must provide for those who need housing.

And, of course, there is no question but that multiple-unit projects, i.e., from duplexes on up, are the only way to go, if the needs are to be taken care of.

BUT, we firmly believe that a balance in housing is also needed.

Frankly we are bothered by the incongruous situation that apparently exists in the Campbell area.

We are told that property in Campbell by the acre is so high that it is impossible for a developer to "come out on it" unless he builds multiples. Single family homes are economically unfeasible.

And then in the next breath we are told that there must be low-cost units built because the people who want to live in Campbell won't pay high monthly payments.

So tracts of attractive single-family homes are built in county areas or in the other cities of the county. But Campbell is avoided like a plague.

Property is too high in Campbell ....

But still the people of Campbell won't pay the high rents.

In our book that just doesn't make sense.

Therefore, when a developer comes to town and submits a four-plex plan for an area that is indicated on the city's master plan for a single-family development, we say wait just a darned old minute.

The developer throws in a lot of stuff about the fact that they don't intend to increase the density as suggested by the master plan, they just want to sort of "even it off".

We maintain that when only TWO single-family dwellings have been built within the city limits of Campbell for more than two years that it is time to take a long, hard look at the overall situation.

We DO NOT subscribe to the principle that Campbell property is too high and that it is impossible to build single-family dwellings on parcels within the city limits of Campbell and "come out on it".

We recognize that the Planning Commission and the City Council are going to have problems in attempting to stand firm on the master plan and maintain that areas which have been specified for single-family homes should remain that way.

We realize that smart developers will point to the "density factor" and will attempt to "prove" that projects such as four-plex condominiums will not increase the overall density more than if the master plan is followed.

That, of course, gets us involved in "density" as opposed to home-ownership and that is like comparing apples with oranges.

We are talking about an entirely different concept.

We maintain that there is a definite NEED for single-family dwelling developments in Campbell.

We agree that there is also a need for areas that are earmarked for multiple-units and for commercial and industrial sections.

BUT we do not think Campbell is so unique that ALL areas specified for single-family projections on the master plan must be changed so that four-plex condominiums can come in.

The four-plex idea is great.

But let's choose the spot for 'em.

MORE ABOUT

We rather reluctantly make that admission because, longer than we care to admit, we have made a semblance of a livelihood by putting one word after another.

As a f'instance, the other night Rudy Golden, a long-time employee of the county weights and measures department, in describing a certain phase of his work, mentioned "tare weight".

Now, we suppose over the years we might have heard about "tare" but we certainly couldn't recall the word.

So we had to show our ignorance and asked Rudy to define it so we would know what in the heck he was talking about.

WE RECOGNIZE THAT there will be many of you around who know that 1) "tare is the weight of the wrapping, receptacle or conveyance containing goods" and 2) "a deduction from the gross weight to alllow for this".

Thus all we are doing here is making a public display of our ignorance, which many of you have indicated pointedly to us from time to time that you were aware of already.

Incidentally, the dictionary also lists that "tare" could also be "the seed of a vetch" and there is the Biblical usage of "a noxious weed".

Every time we discuss uncommon words in this column (or what we consider uncommon) we hear from avid cross-word puzzle fans who are "surprised" at our apparent lack of word knowledge.

Now we have nothing against cross-word puzzlers, as a whole. Some of our best friends belong to that category of the human race.

But we never could get excited about putting words of the right length in squares and blocks for a pastime.

We get into enough trouble putting words together for a living in this newspaper.

IN TAKING THE PICTURE that appears in this issue of the attractive Little League sign that was placed with the various service club signs on the corner of Winchester and Campbell Aves, at West Valley College, we made an "interesting" discovery.

We learned, according to the wording under the Kiwanis Club emblem, that Campbell's oldest service club meets every Tuesday in the "library building."

That could be a wee bit confusing to visiting Kiwanians, inasmuch as the meeting place referred to hasn't been occupied by the library since Dec. 1961.

On the other hand, there is no way for anyone to read the sign anyway, unless one got almost on top of it, as we did in taking the picture.

The lettering is so faded that it was barely discernable then.

-0-

IT CAN BE CONCEDED, of course, that the Campbell Kiwanis Club has been around the town so long (for more than 40 years) that it is unnecessary to tell where it meets.

And, after all, the club has met in the same place (the Country Woman's club) almost from the beginning.

For the edification of those who have moved into the area during the past nine years, and maybe are unaware of any historical background of the community, the library did occupy a part of the Country Woman's Clubhouse for many, many years.

In fact the Country Woman's Club was responsible for getting the first library in town.

In 1961, the library moved into the building at Central and Campbell formerly occupied by a variety store.

And by the end of next year, the schedule calls for the library to move into a brand new building, across from the new city hall, which will be part of the civic center complex.

Even if the lettering on the present sign is so faded that it is hardly readable from more than three feet away, the Kiwanians probably should up-date it.

At least before the new "library building" is completed.

with his family when he was six months old and has lived in the community since that time. A long-time rancher in the area, he was employed by Sunsweet in 1946 and became a member of the volunteers shortly after that.

Sunsweet, old-timers recall, was a convenient place for firemen to work because they could catch the fire engine rounding the corner on Campbell Ave. after the siren on the roof of the station had sounded off.

EVORA

Fireman Ray Evora has been a volunteer for 20 years. He was born in Campbell in 1924 and served in the Army during World War II.

He also was an employee of Sunsweet when recruited as a volunteer and stayed with the volunteers even when his duties with Sunsweet became increasingly important, although he turned down any promotion because of his job.

SGT. AND MRS. CRAIG LEE SKILLMAN

Gary Skillman claims Barbara Camarda

A high noon wedding at St. Joseph of Cupertino Catholic Church saw Sgt. Craig Lee Skillman of Campbell claim Barbara Ann Camarda as his bride.

For her wedding, the Mother Butler High School graduate wore an A-line empire gown of organza. A high Sabrina neckline and short puff sleeves were given an old world charm by the floor length mantilla of illusion and lace. She carried a bouquet of baby red roses and white baby's breath.

Peter J. Camarda, Sr., escorted his daughter to the altar while her mother, Mrs. Peter J. Camarda, Sr., gowned in a venetian white silk dress accented with gold braid trim with gold accessories, held three long stemmed yellow roses.

Present also were the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Skillman, 370 N. Milton. Mrs. Skillman wore a pink crepe coat and dress ensemble with matching pink accessories and carried three long stemmed pink roses.

Maid of honor was Donna Costello of Cupertino, whose dress was a floor length red dotted swiss, highlighted with a wide brimmed straw hat. She carried a nosegay of red roses, blue carnations and yellow daisies, as did Mrs. Zoeann Barbier of Fremont, matron of honor, and bridesmaids Mrs. Jeannie Skillman and Susan Kracht, both of San Jose.

Skillman graduated from Campbell High School and recently returned from Vietnam, where he served in the 101st Air Borne Screaming Eagles.

For his best man he chose his brother, Gary Skillman. Ushering duties were performed by Capt. Peter J. Camarda, Jr., of San Jose, Scott and Shawn Skillman of Campbell and Bob Skillman of San Jose.

Reception was held at Cabana Hyatt House, Palo Alto, with 250 guests attending.

Following a wedding trip to Carmel, the newlyweds will be making their home in Santa Clara.

Alaska - Europe lures family during summer

(Note: Regina Greenleaf is a local artist who frequently exhibits in local shows. Upon her return from a summer vacation, she submitted the following which we'd like to share with you.)

Alaska anyone?
Or maybe Europe?

The Floyd Greenleaf family, 1035 Parr Ave., covered both areas this summer.

Floyd and wife Regina and their dog Teena drove 9000 miles round trip in a Volks Campmobile to Alaska, visiting Fairbanks, Anchorage, Homer, Seward, Valdez and Hope—all the cities you can drive to.

The hard part of the trip was the Alaskan Highway (which is in Canada) and almost 1500 miles of this is gravel, potholes and washboard. It's dusty, slippery when wet, and thrilling!

Why did we go? Just because it's there. There were ample campgrounds and we were never alone any time at any campgrounds.

Alaska at this time of year is very green and the roads in the state are paved and in good condition. Alaska is a beautiful and spectacular state and most of it is uninhabited. If you fish, there are more streams, lakes and rivers than you could ever imagine.

We saw many glaciers and you soon get to recognize them by the distinctive bluish color of the ice.

While her parents were on their trip to Alaska, Linda Greenleaf, senior at Westmont High, was on a six week tour of Europe studying the Comparative Cultures of Spain, Italy, France, Austria and England.

The tour was under the sponsorship of the Foreign Study League.

Linda has some spectacular slides of her trip and you really feel that you are there when seeing them. She has a series of Paris from the top of the Eifel Tower that are as clear and beautiful as can be.

Linda found every city she visited exciting and interesting. The people of each country were very friendly and helpful and she thought the food was delicious, particularly the luscious pastries in France and Italy.

Both Linda and her father would be happy to show their slides to any group that might be interested in such travelogues.

Carmel setting for Baldinger-Miller wedding

An antique gold pin, passed down through five generations of the bride's family, was worn by Cynthia Sue Miller when she married Randall Harold Baldinger.

The Rev. Dr. G. Hunter Hall read the 11 a.m. ceremony in Carmel Presbyterian Church, attended by a few friends and the two families.

Cynthia wore white crepe with a full length mantilla veil and carried a bouquet of white miniature carnations and an orchid. Her sister, Mrs. Barbara Gee, was matron of honor and Michael Baldinger served as best man. Mrs. Gee wore a blue and white chiffon gown with empire waist and carried blue and white pompoms.

Mr. and Mrs. Don W. Miller of San Jose are parents of the bride. Mrs. Miller wore a pink knit suit with green trim and accessories and pinned on a white carnation corsage, while Mr. Miller gave his daughter's hand in marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Les Baldinger, former Campbell residents now living in Saratoga, are parents of the groom, who graduated from Campbell High School.

Mike Miller and Brad Baldinger ushered guests at the wedding, which was followed by a luncheon. The newlyweds honeymooned at Lake Tahoe.

The bride was graduated from Camden High School and West Valley College. The groom attended West Valley College and spent two years in military service. He is presently golf pro at De Laveaga Golf Course in Santa Cruz, where the young couple are making their home.

LAST SUMMER--Children's Metropolitan Operetta Guild participants Bob Johnson, Julie Moo, Debbie Angus, and Jerrie Lyn Moo practiced with Bob Johnson (at the piano) at a summer workshop. Plans to present "Annie Get Your Gun" at Old Town, Los Gatos, are currently under way.

"Annie get your gun" is fall offering

Guns, romance and some of Irving Berlin's most popular songs are the main elements of "Annie Get Your Gun", the musical comedy that has been selected by Children's Metropolitan Operetta Guild, as their next production.

A summer workshop provided young people with an opportunity to participate musically, and the Guild continues its program this fall.

Irving Berlin's great musical comedy will open at the Old Town Theater, Los Gatos, Oct. 30, and spin its tale about the legendary sharpshooting exhibitionist of the 1880's, Annie Oakley.

Holly Hurst and Madeline Hurley will alternate in the role of the crack-shot girl who can out-shoot the man she loves, only to realize that "You Can't Get A Man With A Gun."

Dan Thomas and Dennis Schmedes, of Campbell, will portray Frank Butler, her beau and rival at rifleshooting. Other historical personages will be impersonated by Mike Turley and Matt Smith, Howie Demere and Larry Cowles as the rival showman of the times,. Buffalo Bill and Pawnee Bill, and Alex Vasquez as the famous Indian Chief, Sitting Bull.

John Gilbert, Steve Schneickert, Nancy Tuthill, Carol Ruano, Steve Daub, Sid Cato, Janie Holland, Audrey Henderson, Dave Ray, and Dan Ray will also have leading roles in the large cast that is being directed by C. Michael Traw. The choreography has been devised by Mark Wiesel, assisted by Kathy Angus. Musical director Mrs. Jackie Beard of Campbell.

Tickets may be purchased from cast members or by writing Children's Metro. Operetta Guild, Inc., Box 9552, San Jose 95117.

Letters to the Editor

Noise a Problem Then, Too

Dear Editor:

One of the biggest ecology problems today in our highly industrialized society is noise pollution, and the general public has been properly alerted to the facts of the crisis.

But the problem isn't new.

Long before ecology became a household word, noise began to be recognized as a menace in America's rapidly growing cities.

Eighty-two years ago, a prestigious Boston newspaper published an editorial decrying the harmful effects of urban clamor on human beings.

Under the heading "Various Needless Noises," the Boston Transcript warned on Nov. 8, 1888:

"Among the injurious effects of city life is incessant noise, and it is because it is continuous, and not because of its intensity, that it produces injury to the nervous system."

(The Transcript, of course, could hardly have imagined the violent intensity of 20th century noise, such as the earsplitting shock waves emitted by modern supersonic jets.)

What kinds of environmental noises plagued early-day Bostonians?

"There is a popular theory," the editorial continued, "that one becomes used to the steady rattle of poorly made wagons over unevenly paved roadways, but experience has shown that this idea is altogether wrong.

"The uselessness of many noises, purposely made, has been fully demonstrated. Such, for instance, as the ringing of the milkmen's bells, the jingling of bells on the streetcars, the blowing of steam whistles on locomotives and factories, which have, in many places, been found entirely unnecessary.

"In Boston we escape some of these annoyances, but the absurd custom of hanging bells on poles of streetcars is still kept up, and will be until the law requiring it is repealed."

Declaring it was satisfied "the thousands noises of the street are harmful," the Transcript called on its readers to discover ways for their prevention.

"On leaving the street and entering the railway car, the house or the office, let us see if there are not many harmful noises which are within the power of the individual to stop.

"To slam the door, on entering or leaving, was long incontrovertible evidence of man's vulgarity of nature. Then there came into use a host of automatic contrivances to close the door after those heedless fellows who would leave it open, and doors were slammed harder than ever.

"Years of torture passed before man's ingenuity produced the pneumatic devices by the use of which doors are automatically closed, and slamming is impossible."

But the Transcript warily admitted, "There still remains to annoy and to fret many noises about the house, the office and the streetcar. The thoughtful avoid making them."

Willful noisemakers in 19th century Boston were not regarded lightly by the Transcript, which offered a suggestion to curb their activities.

"The thoughtless must be brought within the range of public opinion, and if not mindful of rebuke, must be subjected to a social boycott."

THANK-YOU NOTE

Dear George,

Now that the dust is starting to settle and things are returning to "normal", the time has come to pause and thank those many, many individuals, groups, and business establishments who showed their support and encouragement for our team's effort in the recent Little League World Series.

First of all, since we are taking the liberty of using this column as a means of voicing our appreciation, we want to thank you and your staff of The Press for the excellent and thorough coverage you gave our team since the first tournament game.

Our thanks go out also to: Mayor Dean Chamberlin and the Council members for their support; City Manager Bob Stephens who managed the City's effort in our behalf; the Chamber of Commerce; the JayCees; the Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions Clubs for their financial contributions; former mayor Charlie Rose for his advice and guidance.

Supervisor Ralph Mehrkens and the County officials for their support; Rusty Hammer and the Campbell Youth Commission for their work on the parade; Chief John Morgan and his staff; Stations KREP and KLIV for their publicity efforts; and last, but not least, we especially want to thank the hundreds of people who contributed and signed their name to the two long telegrams of encouragement which were sent to the team in Williamsport.

We hope, in the next couple of weeks, to send additional letters of thanks to many more individuals and groups not mentioned above.

Our league has always been proud to be part of this fine community and we were doubly proud of the tremendous turnout of support given to our team by the people of the community.

To you and to all of the fine citizens of Campbell – Thank you for your support of Little League.

Very truly yours,
Campbell Little League
Board of Directors
Joe McGrody, pres.

STORE ROBBED

An armed robbery of a Seven-Eleven store was reported to Campbell Police this week.

Sunday afternoon Orinda Mae Mizell reported that two men held up the store at 75 N. San Tomas Aquino Rd. Both were armed, according to Campbell Police. The amount of money taken was not determined.

A burglary was reported by the Tiki Ho Restaurant. The business was broken into on Saturday night but the intruder or intruders were unable to open the safe and left after taking the coins from the juke box.

PITS

Ground apricot pits are used to clean jet engines.

How do you fight injustice?

Nearly everyone has faced injustice, whether it is unfair treatment in his job, discrimination, or ill health.

But there is a higher law we can turn to for true justice. Christian Science teaches that God is divine Principle, the only real lawgiver, and that He is Love — always fair and impartial.

In a free public lecture, Alaister G. Smith of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship will explain "A Basis for Justice," and give examples of people who have overcome injustice by turning to God.

Ecology is a rarely used old word which is suddenly popular. In today's polluted environment it is the basis of an important political issue.

There is real justification for political concern about ecology. Government programs, federal, state and local money and scientific studies to promote clean air and solid waste disposal are of utmost importance. But by far the most powerful influence will be the combined efforts of individuals.

How much each human being will do to prevent pollution and improve the environment can be measured in direct proportion to the extent of his personal pride. So it follows that the ecologist, assisted by psychologists and public relations people must develop human personal pride. And personal pride includes pride in workmanship!

Every American is sick of the new washing machine that doesn't work, the shiny new automobile that falls apart and the shoddy workmanship so prevalent in today's marketplace.

We remember the old jokes which were passed about the "Made in Japan" label. But in this day and age nobody derides the Noritake trademark on a piece of china. Almost all Washington news photographers use a Nikon camera and many drive home in a Toyota to hear a Sony radio or tape recorder. U.S. produced goods are no longer considered as top quality.

Japan, as well as Italy, West Germany and France, is surpassing us in standards of quality and excellence.

Mass production and "speedups" are partly responsible for deterioration of American quality. But part of the problem is a national loss of pride in workmanship.

This country can retain its leadership and remain a first-class industrial power only when we return to the pride in workmanship which built this nation. All government subsidies, pro-labor legislation, welfare programs, and high powered studies in the world will not maintain our industrial leadership until pride in excellence again becomes important.

On September 17, I sponsored a "Zero Defects" conference in Washington, D.C., which was attended by leading industrialists across the nation. The participants, who strive to eliminate defects attributable to human error, enthusiastically endorsed my point of view.

The Zero Defects program appeared on the American scene in 1961 and one of the poineer companies to first embrace it was a small firm, Holex Incorporated, of Hollister, California. Through promoting personal pride and error-free performance by each employee, Holex has won nationwide awards. The most enthusiastic supporters of the program are Holex employees who compete strenuously for the title "Craftsman of the Month".

Ironically the Department of Defense is now considering abolition of this successful program. In my opinion, the objectives of the Zero Defects program could reinstate U.S. industry to its proper prestige and save money in the process. Instead of curtailing such programs, our objective should be to again deserve the right to pridefully stamp our products "Built in America by Craftsmen."

Americans are in danger of losing their "right" to raise dogs. Legislation is being sought in many states permitting only those whose actual livelihood is earned by dog sales to sell.

What prompted this kind of law?

In the past few affluent years, the demand for pure-bred dogs has multiplied. It was only inevitable that someone would recognize the market and capitalize on it.

So when several kinds of pet shop franchises with pure-bred dogs as a basic commodity became available they readily caught on.

And what dedicated dog breeder would sell directly to a store who paid the breeder little, charged the public much and confined their dogs to clean but tiny cages? It is doubtful that anyone thought they would. The backyard breeder would probably have "unloaded" his litter gladly, but his one litter was only a drop in the bucket of a huge market. Besides, the backyard breeder really had no contacts with franchise operators.

But, eagerly waiting in the wings—the puppy mill operator.

And unlikely as it may seem, his cronies across both oceans were also eager to "export" to the American market. (In England, for instance, a dog may sell for $25, but the importer will give him $50—and sell for $200.)

It must be assumed that when the franchise business found that the "true" breeders were still making most of the sales, he got behind the legislation designed to stamp out the competition.

And it may very well work. Politicians are easily persuaded that many of the complaints they receive from their constituents about "the dog problem" will be eliminated if only a select few are allowed to breed. (With complete naively they assumed that the strays they see on the street are the valued stock of a dedicated breeder.)

And sales tax revenue.

Most dog breeders have conveniently forgotten to charge the sales tax on their puppies—probably denying their city and state considerable revenue.

The puppy mill operator operates within the boundaries of the law. Usually he is in a rural area where health department regulations are not too rigid. He sells his dogs "in bulk" to a retail outlet, and sales tax will be levied on the public when they buy.

What about the puppy? We talked about how he'll be sold, but we never once considered a frightened bundle of fur.

Consider this: the puppy may leave the "farm" at five weeks. His stay in the pet shop may be reasonably short so no one is aware 1) he is deaf 2) he has hip dysplasia and 3) he has a serious skin condition—until he has become firmly entrenched in the hearts of his new family. Then it starts—calls to the vet; trips to the vet; cultures; shots; x-rays, and finally, euthanasia.

Had this dog come from a breeder and somehow, all these same ailments been present, chances are, he never would have been sold. A conscientious breeder would recognize the lack of response to sound, bathing and brushing would have unearthed the skin ailment, and a breed subject to hip dysplasia is scrutinized from birth!

ONE YEAR AGO

Residents objecting to the proposed north loop street of vital importance to the future civic center complex, are expected to attend, in force, the Planning Commission meeting next Monday night, when the first public hearing is held on the plan line for the new street.

* * *

Plans for a 156-unit apartment complex on a 7.2 acre parcel of 540 W. Latimer at the San Tomas Expressway received approval of the Planning Commission last week.

The Campbell Water Company, serving approximately 4330 customers in and near the City of Campbell, has been granted authority by the California Public Utilities Commission to raise its rates by about $7,300 a year to offset an increased pump tax and water purchase cost.

FIVE YEARS AGO

Tempers flared briefly at the special City Council meeting last Wednesday when Mayor Charles Rose suggested that a comprehensive planning study was needed of the San Tomas area before any new development was approved by the city.

The rejection by the council overruled a unanimous ruling of the Planning Commission approving the shopping center. Complicating the issue was the opposition of the Turturicci family, owners of Big Boy Market at Hacienda and Capri and the Smith family, owners of the San Tomas Village Shopping Center.

A free symphony concert by a 40-piece orchestra under the direction of Dr. Gibson Walters, head of the music department of San Jose State College, will be presented in Villa Montalvo's outdoor amphitheatre in Saratoga.

* * *

The City Council gave the "go ahead" sign to the Campbell Garden Club to plant trees and ground covering in the Hamilton Ave. Extension Median Strip, and also agreed to finance a portion of the project. The garden club has offered to purchase 335 Maculosa and Desmondensis eucalyptus trees and the City has agreed to prepare the soil and extend an appropriate watering system to the area.

CONVENTION

Musical marionettes will present 'Jack and the Beanstalk'

The San Jose Marionette Theater, sponsored by the Cabrini Community Theater, is currently preparing a unique version of the famous folktale "Jack and the Beanstalk" for presentation on Oct. 17 at 3 p.m. and 8:15 p.m. The performances will be at the St. Frances Cabrini Hall on Camden Ave., between Union and Bascom Aves.

The script was written by Mrs. Anne Sudyka, with the music and lyrics by John P. Healy, Jr. This production will mark the premiere performance of this work. The production is directed by Healy, who is the San Jose Marionette Resident Director, and he is assisted by Mrs. Sudyka.

This production is an experiment in combining the elements of marionette theater with children's theater.

On stage with the marionettes will be approximately 25 youngsters from 5-9 forming the background chorus for the production. Rehearsals are being held on Saturdays from 1-2 p.m. at the Cabrini Hall. This workshop is being run in conjunction with the San Jose Children's Musical Theater Winter Workshop, which will feature a survey of American Musical Theater in January.

According to Director Healy, "This is the first time in this area that puppets or marionettes have been interpolated with youngsters onstage in a full production. It's quite a sight to behold."

For further information about the marionette theater or tickets, call 371-0232 or 377-9825.

Punch cards got you punchy?

Has that ol' debbil "Computer" been needling you where it hurts? Have you been totally frustrated in trying to square away accounts that an automated bookkeeping, or computerized accounting system, has fouled up and caused the squeeze to be put on you unjustly?

It's hard to fight back against an enemy you do not understand. Knowing the weaknesses and vulnerability of your opponent is very helpful.

In this modern automated, computerized world of technology it is now essential that each and every person have a basic understanding of how automated bookkeeping and computerized accounting systems function, for personal protection against unjust charges and damage to credit ratings.

Metropolitan Adult Education Program is offering a course of instruction that will supply just such knowledge.

Even though you may not intend to enter the business field as an employee, the course of instruction entitled "Introduction of Data Processing (1A)" can supply interesting and valuable knowledge of how business accounts are handled by automated systems. That knowledge will be invaluable in helping to cope with everyday business transactions.

Don't let the computer "buffalo" you, and don't be "snowed" by the chad from the holes in punch-cards. Learn how to "break the code" and disclose the secrets of big-business' methods of processing your charge accounts. Fight back against the tyranny of magnetic tape and become the master of the machine-system - don't be a slave to it!

You'll have fun with the figures while you enjoy learning how the machines work with them. The information explosion is upon us! Learn how to cope with the fall-out!

Enrollment at college increases 20 per cent

West Valley College increased its student enrollment by more than 20 per cent this fall semester, according to figures compiled by Jerry Girdner, dean of student personnel.

In a recent board meeting, Girdner revealed that 11,576 students had registered for the fall semester, as compared with 9,536 students a year ago. This represents an increase of 2,040 students.

West Valley has maintained an average 20 per cent increase each year since the college opened its doors to students in 1964.

Trustees of the district also heard a report from instructors involved in the work experience program at the college. Mrs. Betty Cunningham, business education; Portia Frederick, medical assisting; and Tom Devins, food services-restaurant management, told board members the success of the program, particularly in placement of students after completion of the various programs. Under this program, students attend classes part-time and also work.

All three instructors noted that this was the first year there had been any problem in placement of students, but this was understandable due to the state of the employment market in Santa Clara County.

The food services program at the college will again conduct an instructional program for high school seniors following approval of an agreement that West Valley will provide instruction for two hours daily to 24 high school seniors from Fremont Union, Los Gatos Joint Union and Mountain View-Los Altos Union high school districts.

This is the second year of the program, which proved highly successful this past year.

Auto tour to Occidental recalls those Sunday drives into country

It isn't hard to remember a time some years back when certain Sundays were set aside for a drive into the country and a family dinner in some out-of-the-way place. The roads were narrower then, the pace slower, and the trip to and from the outing spot one to enjoy leisurely.

There's still a place that's made to order for this kind of outing, says the California State Automobile Association. It's the little town of Occidental, sort of hidden away among the hills of Sonoma County not far from Sebastopol. There's no freeway leading into this quiet place, not even a major highway—just beautiful, winding roads that are meant to be driven leisurely while all members of the family enjoy the scenery.

Occidental gets its name from the Methodist Church which was built in 1876 and which rises above most of the homes and stores from its vantage point a block up from the main street. Earlier, the town had been known as Howard's Summit Station, named after William Howard who came here in 1849 and was one of the first settlers.

For many years the principal activity in Occidental was lumbering, but many trees were spared and even now the hills surrounding the little town are covered with mature stands of pine, fir, madrone, bay and even redwood.

One of the more delightful old buildings is the two-story frame structure which you see immediately as you enter town from the south on the Bohemian Highway. It was built in 1879 by W. F. Taylor, a descendant of General Zachary Taylor. It now houses the Occidental Art Gallery.

After you have wandered around exploring some of the old homes and stores, take time to have dinner in Occidental. There are three Italian restaurants that serve family-style dinners. Everybody takes their time—the food is bountiful and delicious and you'll understand why so many others, like you, have driven to Occidental for an old-fashioned Sunday outing.

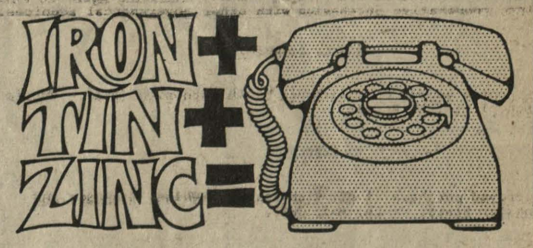
THE PHONE BOOTH



Iron + Tin + Zinc = Beige. If you have a beige telephone, that's the formula used to make it that color. And these aren't all the elements it contains. Your standard phone has 42 of the 104 known chemical elements, ranging from precious metals like gold, silver and platinum (in tiny amounts for electrical contacts) to more plentiful copper, iron and lead.
The elements are in chemical compounds—such as the hydrogen and carbon that form the plastic housing of your phone. That's the formula for your basic black set. And making telephones other colors is not achieved by painting them. Adding mercury to the compound makes them red. Cadmium makes them yellow, and chromium, green.
United Nations Day is October 24. President Nixon has asked all Americans to observe the U.N.'s 25th anniversary this year as a reminder that the U.N. is the chief rallying point for those who seek world peace and world economic and social stability.
The Question Box
Q Are the "toll free" numbers I've seen advertised really free?
A Yes. Many businesses advertise special numbers which permit their customers to call them free of charge. You never have to mention that the call is collect or wait for them to accept charges. These companies welcome your call and automatically pick up the tab.

DUAL MANAGER--Ed Fabbri, manager of the new PruneYard branch of the Bank of America, remains also as manager of the Campbell Ave. branch, a position he has had for almost 18 months. Fabbri, who introduced staff members of both branches at the open house ceremonies of the new PruneYard branch, succeeded Oscar Sorenson as Hamilton Plaza manager on Aug. 1 and now is head guy of the PruneYard branch which opened for business Monday. The Hamilton Plaza office is now closed.

center must be under construction before a building permit would be issued for the station.

But action on the other two items affecting the former Gomes Ranch property was continued until the Oct. 5 meeting, after a few of the commissioners had become somewhat entangled in their discussion over procedural protocol. This involved a proposed text amendment that would allow less widths for streets than presently required by ordinance.

At the last City Council meeting, the Council gave their blessing to an oral suggestion made by Art Kee, planning director, and Bill Wren, public works director, that, if the streets in the proposed Gomes Ranch development were set at 45-foot widths (instead of 60-foot) and allowances made for off-street parking and landscaped areas, the appearance of the proposed four-plex subdivision would be improved.

They indicated that the developers, McKeon Construction and Valley Title, were in agreement with this new concept. The Council told staff to go ahead and initiate the necessary subdivision ordinance change to allow for narrower streets in subdivisions.

Commissioner Dale Scott questioned why the Planning Commission had not been consulted first on the new concept of street-widths and his question started a lengthy disucussion on the subject.

Wren, who was present, explained that basically it was a question of timing.

Complicating matters even further is that a proposed plan for the four-plex subdivision had been submitted to the Planning Commission by McKeon, showing the 45-foot width streets.

But most of the commissioners indicated that they felt they couldn't act on the plans until the text amendment of the ordinance was at least under way.

Despite the pleas of the representative of the developer, the Commission finally voted to continue action on the subdivision map until Oct. 5, the date of the scheduled hearing on the street-width change.

The Planning Commission also on Monday denied the request of Royal Development Co., of Santa Clara, for the city to modify the special zoning restriction in effect on a three-acre parcel on the north side of Gale Dr. between Marathon and Darryl, so that the firm could save about three weeks in time in its construction program.

The area, on which Royal Development plans to build a 72-unit apartment complex, has an "overlay" zoning condition attached, which specifies that a hearing must be held on the plans at both the Planning Commission and City Council level.

Harold Teren, of the development firm, asked the "overlay" be dropped so that work could be started sooner. However, the commissioners pointed out that the "overlay zoning" was put on so that residents in the area would have an opportunity to see what type of construction was planned.

By a unanimous vote they turned down the request, so the plans for the 72-unit project will come before them at the next meeting and then go forward to the City Council.

Plans for a child-care center at 1925 Winchester submitted by the Dolphin Club were approved as were the plans for a warehouse at 191 Dillon submitted for Coast Paper Co., by Bill Hedley, local architect.

Fred Silva, of 1532 Sheffield, was granted a variance for a garage at his residence and revised parking plans for Vanderson Construction Co. on Dell Ave. received the Commission's blessing.

Continued until Oct. 5 was an application for approval of modified plans for a Colonel Sanders restaurant at Winchester and Latimer.

PG and E goes underground in most new tracts

Underground electric service is being supplied to 98.9 per cent of all new residential subdivisions and developments built or planned during the first half of 1970 in the Northern and Central California area served by Pacific Gas and Electric Company.

The company said today that 19,621 dwelling units out of a total of 19,849 single and multi-family homes and apartments will be served from underground lines when completed.

"The average incremental cost for undergrounding for most residential developers is presently down to about $50 per home," said C. E. Ginochio, PG&E senior vice president, in explaining the high undergrounding ratio. The greatly reduced cost of undergrounding, he said, results mainly from three recent developments:

1. Increased joint use of common trenches for gas and electric, telephone and cable TV lines.

2. Improved insulation on electric wires permitting greater use of "direct burial" cable not requiring conduits.

3. More efficient trenching and back-filling machines and methods.

In addition, undergrounding for new residential subdivisions was made mandatory by the California Public Utilities Commission on May 9, 1970.

Ginochio also said that all of the 36 commercial and industrial subdivisions and shopping centers completed or under construction during the first six months of 1970 in PG&E territory will receive electric service from underground lines.

California Highway Patrol makes 11,103 felony arrests in 1969

The California Highway Patrol, whose basic mission is to enforce traffic laws, made 11,103 felony arrests in 1969, many of which involved hardened criminals, some of whom used gunfire in trying to evade capture.

Like all law enforcement officers, California Highway Patrolmen are prepared for contact with criminals at any time. Traffic officers are trained to expect the worst, even though only a small percentage of the violators are criminals.

Sometimes an officer has advance knowledge of the situation he faces, as did Officer Lee Enos prior to apprehending a murder suspect.

Soon after learning from the Antioch police the description of a pickup truck being driven by a murder suspect, Enos spotted the vehicle carrying two men. It was nighttime and Enos, who had already radioed for help, decided to stop the vehicle while it was still on a well-lighted street. The vehicle's occupants offered no resistance, and the arrest was successful, thanks to Enos' skill in evaluating and controlling the situation.

NO WARNING

Sometimes, however, the arresting officer has no warning of the hazardous confrontation. Such was the case when Officers Warren Loftus and Patrick Harrington were patrolling in the Newhall area shortly after midnight.

The action started when the officers moved to stop a station wagon driving over the centerline and following another vehicle too closely. A man and a woman were in the car.

As both officers alighted from their vehicle, the stopped driver hurriedly stepped onto the roadway, swung toward the officers with a gun in his hand, and fired a shot at Harrington. Both officers returned fire from behind the open front doors of their patrol vehicle.

During the exchange, Loftus was wounded in the chest, and a Harrington bullet struck the driver in the chest. He ran a short distance before collapsing, seriously but not fatally wounded.

The driver had a long criminal record and was wanted in Los Angeles for robbery, yet when the officers switched on the red light, it looked like a routine traffic stop.

Sometimes the warning of danger comes not by radio, not by gunshot, but in unpredictable ways.

UNPREDICTABLE

Officer Lew Blake was patrolling near Gilroy one night about 10 o'clock when a driver apparently deliberately cut in front of his patrol car. Blake stopped the vehicle, and noting that the driver appeared exceptionally nervous and excited, directed him to walk back toward the patrol car. Blake attempted to talk to the driver, who only blurted out that the man in his car had a gun.

The officer told the driver to return to his vehicle and act as though he had received a citation. Blake followed the strange carload of people into Gilroy, meanwhile notifying his dispatcher of the situation.

After entering the town, with backup assistance ready, Blake stopped the car and arrested the mysterious male passenger—a man wanted for attempted murder of a San Francisco police officer during a burglary and kidnapping earlier that day.

SAFEGUARDS

The California Highway Patrol, aware of the dangers that officers face, provides many safeguards that are designed to minimize the hazards. Their training in the Academy before they ever go out on the highway stresses procedures that provide the greatest amount of protection without reducing the officer's effectiveness in carrying out his mission.

Particular attention is given to arrest procedures and enforcement policies, supported by classes in weaponry and unarmed combat. Other tools are also available, including radio contact with the dispatcher and his fellow officers; rapid Auto-statis and NCIC reports on stolen vehicles and guns, and wanted people; and assistance from other enforcement agencies.

However, these precautions, thorough and complete as they are, cannot always prevent tragedy from occurring.

Officer Leslie E. Clapp was paralyzed from the waist down when he was shot in the chest and leg while making a "routine" traffic stop. And 28-year-old Officer Ambers O. Shewmaker died after being shot by a motorist he stopped for speeding. The killer was driving a stolen car and had committed an armed robbery an hour or so earlier.

Since January 1 of this year, five other officers have met death in similar incidents, four of them together in the worst tragedy ever to befall the California Highway Patrol.

No matter what the outcome of a hazardous incident, it is studied by trained personnel at the Highway Patrol's Academy in Sacramento to determine what can be learned to make the next such contact less likely to be deadly. Lessons thus learned are passed along to the patrolman, both in the field and at the Academy.

Ringermen host tourney Sunday

Jesse Gonzales of San Luis Obispo, defending champion of the Los Gatos Open Horseshoe Tournament, will be on hand Sunday at Oak Meadow Park when the Santa Clara County Horseshoe Club hosts the seventh annual renewal of the top ringerfest in Northern California Horseshoe Pitching circles.

—VERDAN ZELMAR—

The tournament, always one of the top attractions of the tournament circuit in the Northern California Horseshoe Pitchers Assn. (NCHPA), is again being held in conjunction with the Los Gatos Lion's Club annual steak barbecue.

The Lion's Club will feature (in addition to the barbecue), a cultural and wine festival weekend.

The Los Gatos Open is expected to attract all the top ringermen in the Western States, with the strongest challenges coming from Modesto's Bill Weathers, winner of three major No. California tourneys this year, John Pratt of Sacramento, winner of two head-to-head contests, and and Monte Latino also of Sacramento, who is currently pitching outstanding horseshoe.

Local stalwarts, who will give all the visitors plenty of trouble are: Tal Turner, Los Gatos, Lloyd Potter of San Jose, and Verdan Zelmar of 2183 Abbey Ln., Campbell, who tied for lst in the Pacific Coast Open earlier this year. Tourney starts at 11:00 a.m. Sunday morning.

The Santa Clara County Club is open to membership to all interested valley horseshoe enthusiasts regardless of pitching ability. Free pitching instruction is offered to beginning and novice pitchers. Call Kim Ludlow at 269-3038 for further information.
